Where to Now?

- Description. We saw in this activity that quantum computers can be used to help bike stations communicate with the rest of the bike sharing network. However, in a world where the technology to achieve quantum teleportation is widespread, it certainly won't be limited to our quantum bike sharing network. As socially conscious technology users, we should always be mindful of the potential negative outcomes. Think of a way that quantum teleportation could negatively impact society.

- Submission. A short paragraph.